

Mark your calendars,
October is Farm to School Month!

This past May, at the National Farm to School Conference, we asked delegates and our social media networks “what do you want this year’s Farm to school Month theme to be?” The overwhelming response was a focus on environmental sustainability, so we’re pleased to announce this year’s theme:

Healthy People, Healthy Planet

movement, from preschool to campus. This is done through celebration, by raising awareness about the Farm to School Approach; and through sharing resources to support the establishment or advancement of Farm to School activities in a variety of educational settings.

There's a seat at the table for everyone. Will you join us?

Here are just a few ideas:

- Do you know of a local food celebration happening in your community or school?
Share it on our National F2S Month Calendar
- Are you looking for information and tools on sustainable food systems?
Follow us throughout October on Facebook and Twitter (@Farm2Cafeteria) as we share resources and activities designed to inspire and engage children, youth and adults alike in healthy, sustainable food systems.
- Are you looking for funds to kick-start or enhance Farm to School at your preschool, school or campus?
